KACKAR HIGHLANDS

The Kaçkar Mountains are the extension of the Caucasus Mountains and separate the Black Sea from Anatolia. The Kaçkar Mountains or simply Kaçkars, are glaciated as in the alpine character, with steep rocky peaks and numerous mountain lakes. Its highest peak is 3,937 meters, and the mountain's plateau is at about 3,000 m in elevation.

In Kackars; green tones, green mountains, magnificent forests, flora that will dazzle your eyes with the visual, crystal clear streams that always flow with enthusiasm, the most beautiful plateaus of our country, different cultures coming from the dominance of nature will be waiting for you. The Kackar Mountains are interspersed with "yaylas", or rural mountain villages inhabited by nomadic herders who bring livestock to graze in the high pastures during the summer months.
